Dear Ms. Phelps:

Congratulations! You have been nominated for a 2009 Torchbearer Award. This is a prestigious achievement and acknowledges your contribution to the value and success of women in Indiana, their families and our community.

The Torchbearer Awards are the only awards given in which the state of Indiana recognizes and honors her finest natural resource – Hoosier women. Individuals selected for this honor are those who have carried the light and led the way for others and women who have overcome obstacles to achieve great things for their communities.

Nominations were made by organizations throughout the state that are knowledgeable of great achievements by their fellow Hoosiers. The Indiana Commission for Women was thrilled to receive so many deserving nominations and looks forward to the selection of this year's winners.

One of the great privileges of being governor is the opportunity to acknowledge strong leaders and accomplished citizens who dedicate their efforts to the success and future of Indiana. Thank you for your commitment to helping our state and for making a difference in the lives of so many.

Sincerely,

Mitch Daniels
